

Fee to seminar speaker

The Department of Economics and Management “Marco Fanno” of Padova pays a fee or reimbursement to seminar speakers that covers:

- travel expenses (airfare economy class, 1st class train fare, public transport from and to the airport, and taxi for city transportation);
- accommodation expenses (maximum of two nights, i.e. the one before the day of the seminar and the following one);
- meals (expenses falling in the window $[x,y]$, where x is the day before the seminar, and y is the day after the seminar as for expenses occurred no later than lunch time).

You may choose either to be taxed in Italy, at a 30% rate, or in your own country. In the former case the maximum net amount payable is € 700,00 . In the alternative case the maximum gross amount payable is € 1000,00.

In order to receive the fee you need to send copies of the original receipts and boarding cards to the administrative office in Padua, whose coordinates are:
