

Visiting Research Fellowship 2010/11

Research Fellowship for a visiting period at the Department of Economics and Management “Marco Fanno”, University of Padova

The Department of Economics and Management “Marco Fanno” of the University of Padova is pleased to announce a research fellowship for a stay of one month during the Academic Year 2010/11.

The fellowship is addressed to experienced researchers with a record of academic excellence in the Department’s fields of interest, including: Accounting, Economics, Econometrics, Finance, History of Economic Thought, and Management.

The fellow is expected to entertain scientific interactions with the members of the Department, and to actively participate to the Department’s events. In particular, the fellow should:

- submit a research project describing the research activities she\he is going to focus on during her\his stay;
- give one or more research seminars and attend those organised by the Department;
- be willing to teach a short course (up to 10 hours) in the Department Ph.D. Program in Economics and Management on a topic related to her/his research interests (to be agreed).

The fellowship is incompatible with teaching or research activities in other institutions during the period of stay. Gross salary is 5,000 euros per month, plus reimbursement of travel expenses (terms to be agreed).

The Department will provide office space, a computer with internet connection, and access to the University libraries. Moreover, the administrative office of the Department may assist the fellow in finding an appropriate accommodation .

Interested candidates should send curriculum vitae, a brief statement describing their research interests, and the proposed period of stay (possibly with two or more alternatives). A letter of presentation from a member of the Department is also requested.

A Committee will select one or more candidates on the basis of their publication record with special reference to the last five years, length of stay (longer stays are preferred), season (summer is least desirable), and congruence between their fields of research and those of the Department’s scholars.

The deadline for application is October 31st 2009. All candidates will be informed of the Committee’s decisions before December 31st 2009.

Applications should be sent either via e-mail at visiting.decon@unipd.it or via snail mail at Dipartimento di Scienze Economiche, Direzione, via del Santo 33, I-35123, Padova, Italy.
